

Julia Gorzelany-Plesińska, PhD

Department of Spatial Planning and Landscape Architecture
University of Agriculture in Krakow
30-198 Kraków
ul. Balicka 253a
e-mail: j.gorzelany-plesińska@ur.krakow.pl

She studied Economics at Cracow University of Economics, specializing in Entrepreneurship and Innovations. In the years 2005-2008 she was a PhD student at Cracow University of Economics, the Faculty of Economics and International Relations. She also completed a postgraduate course in European Administration at the School of Banking and Management in Cracow.

From 2005 to 2008 she worked at the School of Economics and Computer Sciences in Cracow as an assistant lecturer in the Institute of Economics and European Integration and the head of Office for Career Development and International Cooperation. She also took part in the development of ECTS catalogue for the School of Economics and Computer Sciences and coordinated international programmes implemented there (Jean Monnet, Leonardo da Vinci, Erasmus). As a part of the Erasmus Programme she delivered a lecture at Athlone Institute of Technology in Ireland on the situation of women on the job market.

She is an author and co-author of numerous publications in Polish and English, mainly dealing with management, regional competitiveness and regional development.

On 18th October 2010, the Faculty Council of Cracow University of Krakow awarded her with the title of Doctor of Economics, specializing in Management Studies. She currently works at the University of Agriculture in Krakow (the Department of Spatial Development and Landscape Architecture). She teaches at full-time and extramural studies in Spatial Development and Geodesy and Cartography.

Scientific interests: spatial development, regional development, managing regional development, regional competitiveness, economic innovation.